Modern day churches and synagogues now have many activities that never would have been dreamed of ten years ago. For example, my church has had inside pyrotechnics, all kinds of farm animals (including a donkey that got loose in the neighborhood), actors that fly around the ceiling by means of suspended wires and all kinds of sponsored athletic programs including a motorcycle group. High hazard activities like skate board parks and climbing walls are more and more popular as churches try to attract younger members (needless to say, many of these activities don't fall within the scope of a church insurance policy and need to be insured separately).

We recommend that every church board has a Safety/Risk Management subcommittee. Every church has members with special expertise; such as policemen, firefighters, various contractors, insurance people and attorneys.

To help your church or synagogue client get started, we have prepared a sample "Safety Program" which you may want to review before setting up your own customized policies and procedures. Just click the following link and it will be available for download in .PDF format.
